HOUSEKEEPING

Proper housekeeping practices are key to completing every task you do without hurting yourself, or someone else.

Before, during and at the end of every task stop and take a moment to inspect your work area ensuring:

- Access/egress points are clear of obstructions
- Hand tools & loose material are secured or properly stored when not in use.
- Walkways are clear of all tripping hazards
- Spills have been cleaned up
- Work area is clear of tripping hazards (loose grating, loose toe boards, hoses/cables, etc.)
- There are no tools or materials stored near leading edges

There is no excuse for not working safely, maintaining a clean work environment is a part of that. It may not be your mess, but it could be your injury.

KEY LEARNINGS

In the past 24 hours we have had two notable interactions. In the first a welder was prepping their weld for cap and did not have their face shield on. The second occurred when a worker crossed red flagging and walked under the outrigger of a crane almost walking under a suspended load.

These near misses could have resulted in very serious injuries. I don't have time, it will only take a second, it's not my mess and I've been doing it this way for years, are not acceptable reasons for not doing your task the safest way. Safety, is your responsibility.

LEADER'S QUESTION TO WORKERS

Have you addressed all housekeeping concerns before starting your task?
