DAILY FOCUS: PEER 2 PEER INTERVENTIONS

Interventions are key to preventing incidents and injuries . Watch out for your coworkers and be receptive to interventions, they are only trying to protect your health and wellness.

Interventions are important:
Someone's life may depend on it.

Tips for making successful interventions:

- Show concern for people rather than for policing safety
- Use positive, non-confrontational body language, smile, keep relaxed and make eye contact
- Ensure you are in a quiet area
- Treat everyone with the respect
- Take the time to commend co-workers for doing safe work

RHI Bricklayer Adrian Bramner (Right) receives a recognition gift from his Safety Lead Jonathan Pylypiw for identifying a safety hazard in Plant 25-1.

Adrian found an expired air test tag and reported it before beginning work in a confined space. Confined space gas testing is mandatory every four hours.

KEY LEARNINGS

In the past 48 hours we've had four injuries.

- A worker was moving a piece of metal and received a laceration to their thumb.
- A worker was on their back working over head and got dust in their eye.
- A worker suffered a strained while operating a chain hoist.
- Worker felt knee pop while walking backwards pulling equipment

Pay attention to your body positioning. Where are your hands? what is the proper way lifting technique? Could your current body position result in an injury?

LEADER'S QUESTION TO WORKERS WILL YOU INTERVENE?
