DAY 21

SAFETY FOCUS: FAMILY MATTERS

Over the last 20 days we had 20 Medical Center visits, 7 dropped objects and 2 potential Cardinal Rule Violations. Observations made in the field show that workers are putting themselves at risk on a daily basis.

We challenge you all to do this:

Do your various tasks as if the people you work with were your child, grandchild, wife or husband.

If you were holding a drill and your child reached in to where you were drilling – would you intervene?

If the area you were working in had holes in the grating and your grandchild was standing underneath – would you clean it up to stop the drop?

If your niece was struggling to go up the stairs carrying things in both arms – would you offer to help?

If your wife put something hot in an area where it could fall and burn her – would you ask her to be safe?

If your work could scratch them, cut them, burn them, sever a finger, arm or leg – if your work could kill them – would you intervene? Would you change the way you work?

Family matters – so should the person working next to you.

It is with great regret that we inform you all of the passing of one of our RHI Bricklayers working at the Turnaround at Syncrude Canada Ltd. Travis Hipfner was an integral part of RHI's Construction Department and will be sorely missed by everyone who worked with him. Our condolences go out to all his family and friends at this trying time.
